Plenty of choice and every one good—ROSA HUGONIS (Photographed September 22, 1930)

"Golden Shrub-Rose of China"

. . . staple as Spirea Vanhouttei and more effective!

Now as staple as Spirea Vanhouttei, Hugonis will serve more effectively the same purposes. It always has been of front rank as a yellow-flowering shrub, and its habit of blooming very early makes it outstanding in the shrubbery border. Because of its charming flowers, its compactly arranged growth and small sharp thorns, Hugonis is indispensable wherever a flower-bearing hedge and impenetrable barrier are desired.

No longer a novelty, yet new to many people, Hugonis, it has been proved time and again, will pay a real profit to any nurseryman whether he be handling a general line, doing landscape work, employing agents or selling by mail. If you, yourself, want to get every order you possibly can this Fall, as every live business man does, sell Hugonis! By so doing you will reap an immediate benefit, and you may open the way for larger sales of other stock. Your requirements can be supplied in full if you order promptly.
